

B F

1171

G28

Class BF1171

Book G28

Copyright N^o

COPYRIGHT DEPOSIT.

BY

Telepathy

SEVEN TIMES

Around the World

IN

Seventy Seconds.

C. R. 7.

HEALING DEPARTMENT.

THE

Christ Method of Healing.

BY THE

SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION

AT

The Institute of Telepathy,

438 Broadway, Denver, Colo.

It heals any disease, at any distance, instantly, under proper conditions.

Cases pronounced incurable are solicited.

Expenses according to the applier's ability.

FOUR CONDITIONS FOR HEALING.

1—The applier must intensely desire healing for self or others.

2—Medicine and medical advice must be abandoned in order that the source of healing may be known.

3—And the applier must be willing to compensate for healing according to ability.

4—The Christ or Spirit of Truth, or Inimitable Life Source, Our Father, must receive all the honor for healing.

Sincerely yours for human progress,

SIDNEY A. GAYLOR, Principal,

438 Broadway, Denver, Colo.

NOTE—Telepathy may be applied also in education, and in all business and social affairs, in which invisible, accurate and rapid communication is required.

THE
First Four Outline Lessons

IN FIRST BOOK OF
TELEPATHY,
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE
VIBRATION.

BY WHICH

Any human organism may learn to transfer its feelings, thots and knowledge to others, invisibly, accurately, at any distance, and as rapidly as it can think; thus inspiring them with its desires and aspirations for good, with corresponding increase in their power of perception, and secure instant and accurate response.

BY SIDNEY A. GAYLOR,

Principal of the Institute of Telepathy at Denver, Colorado, and formulator of the Science of Life Vibration A. D. 1892, C. R. 7.
Formerly Editor of the Comparer of New York City, the first Illustrated Religious paper ever published, and of the Pacificator of New Haven, Hartford and Springfield simultaneously, and of the Weekly and Daily
Journal, Worcester, Mass., and of the Kansas
Expositor of Topeka, Kan., and of the Gospel Visitor and the Sun Rise of Denver, Colorado.

Entered according to act of Congress, in the year 1892 by SIDNEY A. GAYLOR, in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

THIS BOOK

Is designed to explain what Telepathy is, and why it is practical, and introduce the Institute of Telepathy and its work, at Denver, Colorado, and offer an opportunity to students who cannot attend it to study and learn to practice the Science of Life Vibration at their homes. Each monthly volume will contain four outline lessons, including, in abbreviated form, the substance of the lessons given each week in the local Institute, with facilities and instructions for practice with the Institute as fast as the students are prepared for these experiments.

Each monthly volume will also contain items of interest from students and from the twenty-five Institutes of Telepathy, from Denver to Denver around the world between the 30th and 50th parallels of north latitude, through the most populous, enlightened and wealthy portion of the earth.

PRACTICE.

Students may profitably begin to apply the Science in healing self, while studying the second volume of the book; but experiments in education and general communication should be deferred until the first four consecutive volumes have been studied; then the fifth volume will contain instructions and offer facilities for students to practice in these departments.

The Principal's ability to inspire each student with his aspirations for progress, and increased power of perception will be available, and the use of this natural and acquired ability will be of great value to every student who complies with the reasonable conditions for securing it.

LESSON 1.

DEFINITIONS.

ATTRACTION—The invisible, illimitable life force of the universe, which evolves all organisms and causes unceasing vibration in all substance. The most refined phase of attraction operating in the human organism we call love.

ATOMS—The visible and invisible particles of which all substance is composed.

FORCE—Whatever tends to move anything. Three classes of force are here recognized, namely: (1) Life force; (2) Mechanical force, and (3) Chemical force.

LIFE FORCE is illimitable, and forms, feeds, sustains and controls all organisms, sentient and non-sentient. It includes all phases of primary force, and operates most powerfully in and through the human organism.

MECHANICAL FORCE includes all phases of force produced by machinery, and is dependent on the human life force for its existence and operative ability.

CHEMICAL FORCE is all produced by chemical action.

LAW—The necessity of substance to act in the same way invariably, under the same conditions.

ORGANISM—Any substance composed of organs, and formed and operated by some phase of life force in it. Visible organs have form, invisible are formless.

SUBSTANCE—All of which the universe is composed—both visible and invisible—including all phases of attraction.

TRUTH—Is the reality of things in their proper internal and external relation.

UNIVERSE—Everything, everywhere and eternally; all worlds of all systems of worlds; all things and all peoples of all worlds; all that is. The extent of our universe depends on the extent of our knowledge. A little child recognizes a small universe, because it has only a little knowledge.

VIBRATION—Movement, oscillation, slow or fast, according to the refinement of the vibrating substance. Instance, the sea contains little life force, and its vibrations are slow, only one every twelve hours. Light being much more refined, its vibrations travel 18,000 miles per second. Vibrations may be co-extensive with the vibrating substance. The most powerful life vibrations or thots are produced by the most powerful phase of attraction operating in and through the mental department of the human organism. It is called love.

WILL—Human desire intensified; the life force of the human organism. It may be increased by increasing human knowledge. In telepathy, the will corresponds to the operator in telegraphy.

TELEPATHY.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION AND SOME OF ITS USES.

This Science of Life Vibration begins with what manifestly is, namely, Life-force or Attraction—and with what we know of the formation and operation of the human organism.

It is called Telepathy, because Webster very properly gives the name to all that was known of it when the last edition of that dictionary was published.

The Science of Life Vibration is as far beyond all phases of mental science as the illimitable life force of the universe is more extensive, refined, powerful, unchangeable and reliable than the ever changing feelings and thots of the human mind, which we know are dependent on the illimitable life force or attraction for their existence and operative ability.

By this science any human organism may learn to transfer its feelings, thots and knowledge to others invisibly, accurately, at any distance, and as rapidly as it can think; inspiring them with its desires and aspirations for good and increased power of perception; and secure accurate and instant response. Therefore Telepathy may be applied

I. IN GENERAL COMMUNICATION.

It may be useful for invisible, accurate and quick communication on all business and social subjects, at any distance, and when no other method of communication is possible.

2. IN EDUCATION.

By the application of Telepathy in home and school education, the most rapid and permanent progress may be secured; for by it the parents and teachers can learn to inspire the children with their desires and aspirations for unfoldment, and enable them to secure it, by increasing their power of perception.

3. IN HEALING.

As the vibrations are life itself, they instantly re-inforce the life force of the organism appealing for it; hence its usefulness in healing all disease, and under proper conditions, the healing is instantaneous and certain. No long series of expensive treatments are necessary, because this is not merely mental work, but spiritual or life force operating. It is the work of the most powerful phase of life force or attraction. And during all past historic ages, a few people in all countries have limitedly and unscientifically practiced healing in this way, without knowing the why and how.

In the Bible of Christendom, Jewish history gives many remarkable cases of healing and deliverance by the illimitable life force operating in and through the human organisms, which it had formed and fed, and sustained, and which had learned to let the life force operate in and through them naturally; and this was simply practicing the undeveloped science of life vibration.

Later, Jesus and his disciples and apostles healed many by telepathy, even restoring life to inanimate human bodies, and did many other so called miracles, by understanding and obeying the illimitable life force of them. The same operating now, is beginning to be called the science of life vibration; because we are learning the why and how.

And during the last few years, in all nominal Christian countries, through some of the sect called Christian Scientists, and others, the illimitable life force has healed thousands of cases, many of which had been pronounced incurable by the attending physicians.

Though whatever efforts may have been made by them, to establish a science of healing, they have not been entirely successful, for they all admit some uncertainty which may be attributable to their uncertain basis, of feelings and thots, which are ever changing with the constantly changing physical conditions. They either partially or entirely fail to recognize the real illimitable life force, the spiritual department of the human organism, which is the only reliable source of healing, and which naturally operates the mental, and is one with the illimitable life force or attraction itself, and the most powerful phase of attraction or life force. They fail to recognize this, the only force that can re-inforce the mental and physical phases of itself—and hence their uncertainty.

A so-called science, based on the ever-changing feelings and thots of the human mind only, must be unreliable. It is like the house built on the sand. But the Science of Life Vibration is based on the eternal, unchangeable life force of the universe, which includes all phases of force, and therefore is solid and reliable,

PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS.

In 1874 I began to think of the subject of life vibration; but not the name, and during that year my life was saved by its power unnerving a man, so he could not hurt me by shooting at me three times with a revolver, at a distance of about six feet. I was unarmed, but well protected.

In 1876 my life was again saved, by telepathy preventing my reaching an ambush of six robbers. In 1877 both of my little daughters were healed of violent fevers by life vibration.

In 1878 I came suddenly near a large brown bear, in the mountains, which reared up for fight; but telepathy caused it to run away immediately.

From that year I practiced telepathy limitedly in communicating my wishes to my children, and often in healing both them and myself, and for several years have not depended on any other healing, for either self or others.

In 1882, while camping in the mountains with my little children, the dog chased two young brown bears up a tree; the old bear chased the dog to us, and, when near, she reared up to attack us; I shot at her, the gun bursted, and both bear and myself fell. The wounded bear reared up for fight again; I remembered telepathy, applied it, and the bear ran down the canon immediately, leaving us safe from further harm.

SEVEN BENEFITS SECURED BY TELEPATHY,
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION.

1. By it I may learn to heal myself of any disease, and preserve my health in all conditions and under all circumstances.

2. By telepathy I can know of any impending danger of any kind in time to avert it, invariably. If the danger is from human organisms I can impart my desire for peace to them and change their hatred to love instantly, and thus protect myself and others perfectly.

3. It will enable me to secure justice for myself and others in all cases.

4. By it I can learn to answer any question on any subject correctly, and can teach others to do the same.

5. And telepathy enables me to control all my spiritual and mental conditions and relations, as well as the physical; thus securing happiness as certainly as health.

6. And best of all, the science of life vibration enables any parent or teacher to transfer their feelings, thots and knowledge to the children without words or signs, instantly, inspiring the children with the parent or teacher's desires and aspirations for knowledge and progress with corresponding increase in their power of perception.

7. By telepathy we may get news around the world seven times in seventy seconds. I, means every reader.

LESSON II.

WHAT IS TELEPATHY?

TELEPATHY IS THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION

By which any human organism may learn to transfer its feelings, thots and knowledge to others invisibly, accurately, at any distance, and as rapidly as it can think, thus inspiring them with its desires and aspirations for good, with corresponding increase in their power of perception, and secure instant, accurate response.

TELEPATHY IS APPLICABLE:

1. In both home and school education.
 2. In healing all disease, and
 3. In all business and social affairs.
-

THE SEVEN CONDITIONS

ON WHICH TELEPATHY, THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION, DEPENDS.

1. Telepathy depends on the existence of illimitable life force or attraction, and on its being the most refined of substance.
2. This life force or attraction must be one, and in everything everywhere.
3. It must be atomized.
4. And it must all be under one law, or necessity to act in the same way invariably, under the same conditions.

5. It must be vibratory.

6. Its vibrations must be the most rapid, most powerful, and most accurate.

7. There must be organisms in it with sufficient knowledge to vibrate it and direct its vibrations.

OUTLINE BASIS

OF TELEPATHY, SHOWING THE EXISTENCE OF THE SEVEN NECESSARY CONDITIONS.

1. Life force or attraction is—and it is the most refined of substance.

2. To the extent of our knowledge, life force or attraction is illimitable, and necessarily one, and in everything everywhere, though differing in degrees of refinement.

3. We know that visible substance is atomized and the whole must be like its parts in composition; the invisible is a part of the whole of substance, therefore it is atomized.

4. The law or necessity of life force or attraction in the visible substance, under proper conditions, is to draw like atoms together to form and evolve classes of more complex-like organisms. This law must apply to invisible substance also, for the law of the whole must be the law of every part of it.

5. This life force or attraction being illimitable, it is in every atom of substance everywhere, causing them to move in coming together, producing unceasing vibration in all substance, and therefore itself is vibratory. And as the life force is illimitable its vibrations are illimitable also, and may reach any desired point or organism in the universe.

6. Physical science demonstrates that the more refined a substance the more rapid its vibrations, and this same law applies in invisible substance also, and illimitable life force or attraction being the most refined of substance, therefore its vibrations are the most rapid, and most powerful and most accurate.

7. The human organism being the most refined and complex, it is the most powerful organism known, and as the law or necessity of it is to think or vibrate in this illimitable life force or attraction, and as its action in vibrating is silent and invisible, it certainly can succeed in doing the work for which it is perfectly adapted, and which is necessary for its existence in a normal condition.

Again, the human organism has invented telegraph apparatus with which it can communicate by vibrating electricity, which is only an inferior phase of life force or attraction, and certainly the superior life force of the human organism that controls electricity—the illimitable life force or attraction, which forms and feeds, and sustains and develops, and operates the human organism and everything else—may be relied on, under proper conditions, to communicate, by vibrating and directing its own vibrations with others like itself, in substance and in modes of operating.

But to avoid any erroneous conclusions concerning the ability of the illimitable life force or attraction to obey the law or necessity of itself in its organized centers of attraction in human organisms to communicate with each other invisibly and accurately, let us examine the

LESSON III.

OUTLINE OF THE FORMATION AND OPERATION OF THE HUMAN ORGANISM.

As the human organism is the most refined and complex, it is, therefore, the most powerful organism of which we have any knowledge.

And like all other organisms, it is formed by attraction, and as it is capable of more knowledge than any other organism, it is, therefore, able to exercise more attraction or life force or desire.

Attraction begins the human organism and feeds and sustains and develops and directs, and should control it. This organism is composed of three departments, namely, the physical, the mental and spiritual, and as soon as the formation is begun at birth, the spiritual or life force or desire begins to move and direct and control the mental department and to move and direct and control the physical through or by the mental, and if this process were allowed to go on naturally, it would soon evolve perfect, comfortable and happy human organisms.

Surely, the illimitable life force or attraction, which forms and feeds and sustains the human organism, may be relied on to direct and control the whole through the spiritual department of it, which naturally moves and directs the mental, which should do the same in and for the physical department.

And when the physical becomes disordered and improperly related, either internally or externally, the illimitable life force of it, and of which it is, should be able and competent to repair and regulate and correct all that may be disordered or improperly related, especially since this human organism is the most powerful known, and the most powerful because it can know more, and, therefore, desire more, and necessarily do more; than all others; it contains more life force or attraction; it can desire more.

Life force has many phases, even in visible substance, seen in the mineral, vegetable and animal classes of it, and we will now consider briefly the most powerful phase of human attraction, called which is the most refined phase of attraction or life force, and is that which is unceasingly drawing like atoms of substance together, forming like organisms in all substance, from the classes of minerals to the systems of worlds, causing unceasing vibration of all substance, and invariably evolving something better—more refined and more powerful organisms—making known the universal law of evolution to be from good to better—eternally, because love being the most refined of all substance, its action upon all tends to refine all, or make all like itself, and as the human organism can know more, it can, therefore, love more, and desire more, and can also do more than any other known organism—because it is the most powerful.

LOVE,

And this unequaled power can also be increased, for by increasing our knowledge we intensify our desires or attraction or love, and thus increase our power, giving us ability to do more, and as our ability to increase our knowledge is unlimited, our power also must be without limit; hence, like Jesus, we may each learn to recognize and realize the truth that “I and my father (or feeder) are one,” and therefore with him claim that all power is given unto me in both visible and invisible substance.

The love center or center of attraction of every human organism will always attract or draw atoms like itself, to itself, thus ever increasing itself by attraction, which is the law of itself, while properly related internally and externally.

The mental and physical departments of the human organism which love, by attraction, forms and feeds and sustains, and directs and develops, may be disorganized by the same force; but the spiritual or love center cannot be disorganized. Love cannot die, hence our continued identity or spiritual existence is a certainty, because the life or love center is indestructible, and therefore eternal. Attraction being all the force there is, and love the most powerful phase of it, there is no power to destroy it.

ITS OPERATION.

The love center or spiritual department or desire of the human organism operates the mental, and the mental moves and directs the physical. Thus we see that the spiritual department not only has ability; but it is the function and law of the life force or center of attraction to move and feed and sustain and direct and control and develop both the mental and physical departments of the human organism, and to control all their internal and external conditions and relations; and this is why it can and does heal all disease, or not ease, which is only the result of a disordered condition of the mental or physical departments of the organism, either internal or external, or both.

And now we may begin to understand from the foregoing statements of truth why neither physical nor mental force can heal disease, and why the illimitable life force through the spiritual department, by the desire of the human organism, can and does heal all disease under proper conditions.

TELEGRAPHY AND TELEPATHY CORRESPONDENCES.

1. Illimitable electricity corresponds to illimitable life force or attraction.
2. The office is the whole human organism, including its physical, mental and spiritual departments.

3. The battery is the sum of acquired knowledge, by sensation, reason and intuition.

4. The Vibrator is the mental department of the human organism.

5. The conductor is the love itself.

6. The insulator is the harmony or mutual desire in the applier and responder.

7. The operator is the will or intensified desire of the applier or responder, or both.

IN TELEGRAPHY,

THE TELEGRAPH OFFICE CORRESPONDS TO THE HUMAN ORGANISM—IN TELEPATHY.

The electric telegraph offices are in the illimitable electricity, and correspond to the human organism in the illimitable life substance or attraction, and as the battery accumulates and conserves the electricity, so the physical and mental departments of the human organism accumulate and conserve illimitable life force, attraction or desire, by attention and concentration of that or mental vibration, until the will, or desire, or life force, or attraction is sufficiently intensified to transmit itself to another organism in harmony with it, and as the telegraph operator transmits the message by using the vibrator, so the human will, or intensified desire, or life force, or attraction reproduces itself in the other harmonious self, by letting the illimitable life force, attraction or love, operate naturally. As the electricity operates through the office, so the illimitable life force operates through the human organism—and the human organism operates in and by the illimitable life substance, and as the illimitable electricity cannot be utilized until it is concentrated, and more in one place than another, then it is the law, or nature, or necessity of it to rush to the point having less.

So with this life force or most powerful phase of attraction—one human organism has less because it has less knowledge of itself, and it naturally appeals to the one having more, and it as naturally responds, silently and invisibly, and invariably, and instantly re-enforces the applier—with the exact life force needed—and this appeal and response is as natural as for the currents of electricity to pass from the cloud having more to the one in its vicinity having less, until a natural equilibrium is secured.

LESSON IV.

OUTLINE REVIEW

OF FIRST FOUR LESSONS.

WHAT IS TELEPATHY?

I. It is the Science of Life Vibration by which any human organism may learn to transfer its feelings, thoughts and knowledge to others, invisibly, accurately, at any distance and as rapidly as it can think, thus inspiring them with its desires and aspirations for good with a corresponding increase in their power of perception, and secure instant and accurate response.

Hence, Telepathy is applicable to education, healing, and in general communication in all business and social affairs.

WHY PRACTICAL.

2. Because the illimitable life force or attraction is vibratory, and the most refined of substance; and the spiritual department or center of attraction, or love center of the human organism, through which the illimitable operates, is the most powerful organism known, and can therefore be relied on to vibrate and direct its own vibrations, which are the most powerful, and, therefore, the most accurate.

The conditions, and law or necessity which makes telepathy possible, also makes inaccuracy impossible. Life vibrations being the most powerful known, there is nothing to divert or stop them. Telepathy has been limitedly and unscientifically practiced by a few among all historical peoples of past ages, and is now being practiced in healing thousands of cases annually that have been pronounced incurable by the attending physicians, though these so-called Christian Scientists concede that the results of their efforts are somewhat uncertain, so that instantaneous healing occurs only occasionally.

HOW.

Healing is done by mutual, intense desire, in the applier and responder; sufficiently intense to enable them to let the illimitable life force or attraction operate in and through them naturally.

The science applied in education enables the parent and teacher to inspire the children with their desires and aspirations for progress and increased power of perception, thus insuring success.

AVERTING DANGER.

Telepathy enables the student to know of any impending danger of any kind, in time to avert it invariably. If the danger is from human organism, the student can impart the desire for peace to them, and change their hate to love instantly; thus protecting self and others perfectly.

And by the Science of Life Vibration, we may learn to get news around the world seven times in seventy seconds.

“LEVELERS.”

In Columbus' time many may have said, “I don't believe there is any other continent, because I never heard of it; and, in fact, I never even thought of it.” Yet the continent is here, and its central portion is now inhabited by 60,000,000 of the most liberty-loving, progressive people on earth, whose starry flag is respected everywhere, and is enabling the formulator of the Science of Life Vibration to establish a chain of twenty-five Institutes of Telepathy around the world from Denver to Denver, between the 30th and 50th parallels of north latitude, through the most populous, enlightened and wealthy portion of the earth.

And though Franklin, Fulton, Morse, and Edison may have often heard undeveloped people say: "I don't believe it can be done, because I never thought of it," yet hundreds of thousands of steamers plow all oceans, lakes and navigable rivers, and millions of railroad trains are running everywhere, and a perfect network of telegraph and telephone and electric light wires almost overspread the earth—and all this and much more has been done during the last sixty years. And now the most powerful phase of life force or attraction is beginning to be investigated, and may accomplish more during the next ten years than steam and electricity has during the last sixty years.

THE LAST THE BEST.

TELEPATHY THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION

Is as far in advance of all phases of mental science, including Christian Science, Theosophy, Spiritualism, etc., as their most advanced phases are ahead of the superstitions of the most degraded tribes of Africa.

The science of life vibration is as much more comprehensive in scope, and refined, and powerful, and accurate in its operations than any phase of mental science, as the eternal, illimitable, unchangeable life force or attraction itself is more extensive, refined, powerful, and accurate than the limited, weak, inaccurate, ever-changing activities, feelings and thots of the human mind, which are entirely dependent on the illimitable life force or attraction for their existence and operative ability. We know that our feelings and thots are continually changed by every internal and external change in the physical conditions, or relations, either real or imaginary. But this eternal, illimitable life force or attraction which forms and feeds, and sustains and directs the mental and physical departments of the human organism never changes; it is eternal Peace, and always in perfect harmony with itself, and with all of its illimitable internal and external conditions and relations.

The science of life vibration is as far in advance of any science of feelings and thots, or mental activities, as the Sun itself is more powerful and reliable than a few of its rays, which are always liable to interruption, and may be entirely shut out of the best room.

And it is as far beyond all the operations of what is called human mind, as the lightning itself is more powerful and useful than the flash and thunder it produces.

The illimitable life force or attraction is the source of all power itself, the feelings and thots are produced and directed by this source, the illimitable life force or attraction, but they are always liable to changes, from both external and internal physical conditions, and hence are always unreliable.

And there is no law for feelings and thots in themselves, except that they must change by the ever uncertain and changing conditions and relations of the physical department of the human organism. They cannot possibly furnish any reliable basis for so-called mental science, for the only reliable and permanent basis for science is the existence of a law or necessity for the thing to act in the same way invariably under the same conditions, and this is impossible in the feelings and thots or mental activities of the human organism, for the reasons above stated, namely, their constant liability to unceasing interruptions from both internal and external physical conditions and relations.

But nothing can possibly change the conditions or operations of the eternal, illimitable life force or attraction, the most powerful phase of force, the illimitable life of all things, and the former and feeder, and sustainer and director of all organisms, both sentient and non-sentient. It cannot change in either quality or operation, and is therefore reliable, because it is the eternal law or necessity of itself to act in the same way, invariably under the same conditions, and on this eternal, unchangeable law or necessity of illimitable life force or attraction, the Science of Life Vibration is based, and as the life force or attraction is illimitable, and includes all phases of force or attraction, it is all the force there is, and of course there is nothing to interfere, hinder or stop either its existence or natural activities.

To learn to let this illimitable life force or attraction operate and control the human organism naturally, is the aim of Telepathy, the Science of Life Vibration.

The Institute of Telepathy,

AT

438 Broadway, Denver, Colorado,

FOR DEVELOPING AND TEACHING

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE VIBRATION.

Open Daily from 9 till 12 a. m.

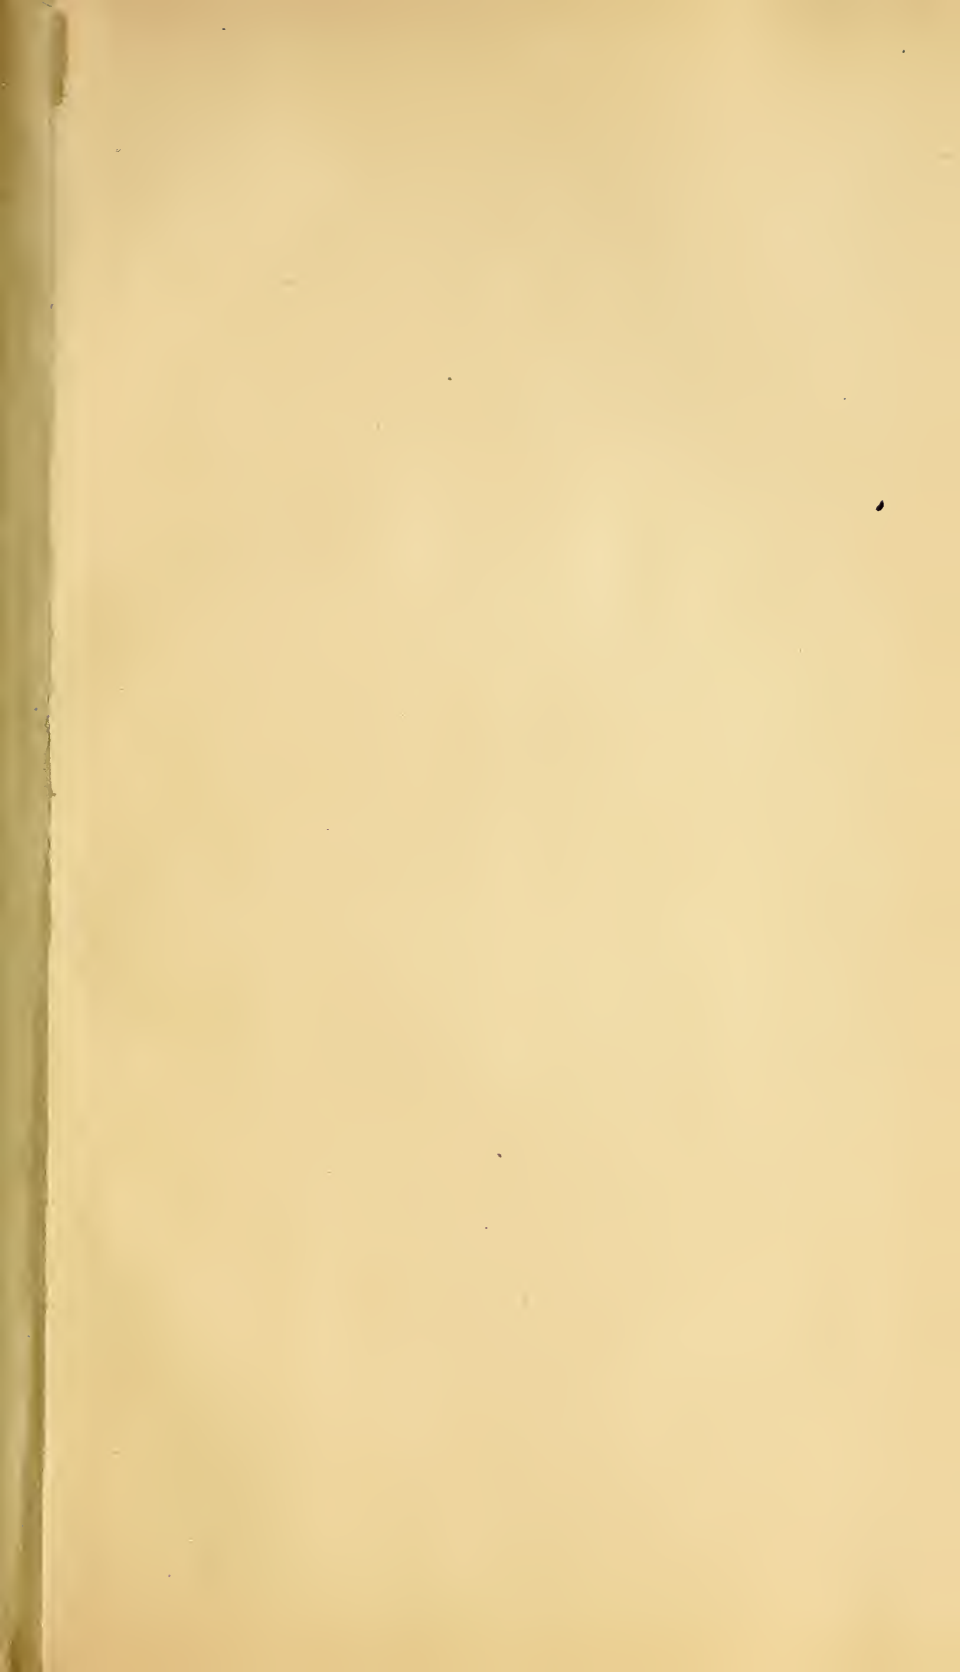

BRIEF DEFINITION:

Telepathy is the Science of Life Vibration

By which any human organism may learn to transfer its feelings, thots and knowledge to others invisibly, accurately, at any distance, and as rapidly as it can think, thus inspiring them with its desires and aspirations for good, with corresponding increase in their power of perception, and secure instant and acurate response.

TELEPATHY IS APPLICABLE

- 1—In home and school education.
- 2—In healing all disease, and
- 3—In all business and social affairs.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

0 020 196 551 2